LL.M. International Business Law
Dubai - Mauritius - Paris - Singapore

Awarded by Paris-Panthéon-Assas University, France's 1st Law University, the LL.M. International Law program deals mainly with practical case studies and certain key subjects, with a pluridisciplinary focus.

Whether in Dubai, Paris, Mauritius or Singapore, all courses are taught in English, by Professors of Law from Paris Panthéon-Assas University and professionals acting in the legal field coming from France, Europe, Asia and Africa. All courses strongly focus on case-studies and deepening of key subjects in a transversal and pluridisciplinary perspective.

The LL.M. International Business Law includes a minimum of 200 hours of teaching and welcomes approximately 30 students or trainees over a period of one academic year.

The LL.M. International Business Law program focuses on practical case studies and key topics, with a multidisciplinary orientation. It prepares students and professionals for operations such as major acquisitions or market transactions, cross-border mergers, complex financing, restructurings, LBOs, financial engineering and industrial projects. These complex operations often lead to the search for innovative solutions. It is particularly relevant to study them and analyze the legal, financial and accounting issues they raise. Thus, contracts, guarantees, financing and international trade litigation, among other fundamental subjects, are examined from different angles.
