

IHEI
—
INSTITUT DES HAUTES ÉTUDES
INTERNATIONALES

Summer school in 'Contemporary International Legal Perspectives'

In the center of Paris (Panthéon Square), the University Paris II \(Panthéon-Assas\), successor of the old Faculty of Law of the Paris University, organizes a summer school in International Law within the Institut des Hautes Etudes Internationales, the eldest French international law institute, founded in 1921.

Devoted to the 'Contemporary International Legal Perspectives', the students of the Summer school will have the possibility to attend the following teachings, provided in English by leading French authorities in the field of international legal studies:

Module 1 International legal relations: contemporary perspectives (10 hours)

Module 2 International organizations: regional and universal issues (5 hours)

Module 3 International litigation: current perspectives (10 hours)

Module 4 Contemporary issues of international business law: commercial relations and arbitration (10 hours)

Place and time.

The Summer school will take place in the old Faculty of Law: 12, Place du Panthéon in Paris.

All the lectures will be organized over a week on an intensive basis from July, the 17th 2017 to July, the 21st 2017.

Admissions.

May be admitted to the Summer School on 'Contemporary International Legal Perspectives' students or professionals, without consideration of nationality or of place of education, that have gone through a general university preparation amounting to at least two years of higher education, with either a significant part of legal studies or an international legal practice considered to be sufficient by the director of the Summer School.

Candidates should complete, in French or in English, the online application file. A cover letter, a résumé (curriculum vitae) and a document establishing the university preparation and, where applicable, the legal practice of the candidate, must be joined to the application form.

Fees and certificate.

The fees of the Summer school amount to 1000 € (one thousand Euros) / student. The students that will attend the program will receive a Certificate of the University acknowledging the participation to the Summer school in 'Contemporary International Legal Perspectives'.

